

Secretropin[®], the Logical First Step in Growth Hormone Therapy

BY DR. GEORGE TRAITSES

Human Growth Hormone (hGH), is secreted by the pituitary gland which is located in the center of the brain, peaks during adolescence when growth is most rapid. It is the primary hormone responsible for maintaining mental and physical health through tissue repair, healing, cell replacement, bone strength, brain function, enzyme production, integrity of the skin, hair, and nails. By the age of 60 it is not uncommon to see levels 75% lower of growth hormone than more youthful levels. This can also decrease due to concussion and traumatic brain injury.

As we age or by injury, hGH output begins to fall off, whether by sluggishness of pituitary secretion or because of true hGH decline. The outcome is the same: declining levels of hGH give rise to a plethora of symptoms which we know as the telltale signs of aging:

- Loss of elasticity – thinning, sagging and wrinkled skin
- Loss of bone strength – osteoporosis
- Loss of Muscle strength – frailty and weakness
- Increased adipose tissue – accumulation of fat
- Loss of heart muscle contractility – heart failure
- Less favorable lipid profile – increased cholesterol and decreased HDL
- Loss of vigor and stamina
- Loss of sexual powers and libido

Secretropin is the first clinically proven natural stimulator of growth hormone production, and is gaining the medical community's acceptance as a more desirable "first step" approach to pursuing hormonal balance, naturally, with minimal risk. This is a 100% natural product that has been shown over 13 years to increase the production and release of growth factors and is approved by Health Canada to be sold in Canada.

Secretropin is believed to directly stimulate the pituitary, thereby increasing the production and release of GH. Secretropin is classified as a natural food (dietary) supplement and not a drug. Secretropin does not contain any (prescription) drugs and has a Lite Wild Berry flavour. Secretropin's oral delivery system owes its effectiveness to the latest nanoliposomal technology, which wraps the active agents in a protective envelope. Until this delivery technology was available, stomach acid would inactivate and destroy the active agents responsible for the increase in growth hormone production.

Even though it is a natural product, we recommend that the patient use this product under the supervision of a doctor, and can be found in many doctor's offices specializing in anti-aging, hormone imbalances, menopause, concussions and traumatic brain injuries, and from your favourite pharmacist (thus may be covered by third party payers) or directly from us with a prescription.
